To Whom It May Concern:

I recently learned about the opening for a Social Media Security and Compliance Intern through LinkedIn's internship page. After further exploring TCI's webpage, I found the techniques and services provided by the Teacher's Curriculum Institute to be impressive in their utilization of technology in educating K-12 classrooms. As someone who is interested in providing interactive educational materials, I feel that this position would suit me well. Furthermore, I am an impassioned and quick learner, as recently demonstrated with delivering a lauded project which required learning Javascript, jQuery, CSS3 and HTML5 in a matter of five weeks. I believe my skillset would help facilitate work on current projects at TCI necessitating strong front end design. With this, and my ability to adapt to different situations, I would be able to benefit a variety of projects.

As a long-time tutor, I also understand the importance of tools which assist in engaging students of all different learning styles. Working with people of varying demographics provided firsthand experience with catering lessons in such a way that they could be readily understood. It was with tutoring, and participating in MOOCs to supplement my education, that I became thoroughly interested in utilizing technology to further education.

At your earliest convenience, I would be more than a happy to come in to discuss this position and my relevant qualifications. My portfolio is available upon request. Please contact me at 555-555-5555, and thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Gema Brow
